DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The information disclosure statement (IDS) submitted on July 24, 2003 and January 14, 2005 have been considered by the examine and copies of such IDS are accompanied herein.

Drawings

2. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the “residual frequency coefficients” and “the high frequency content of the video signal in regions away from the gaze point” must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as “amended.” If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either “Replacement Sheet” or “New Sheet” pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Specification

3. The specification has not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

4. Claims 1-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

In this case, there is no support found for the claimed features of “adjusting the residual frequency coefficients to reduce the high frequency content of the video signal in regions away from the gaze point” recited in step (d) of claim 1 and step (e) of claim 17. Specifically, where is the location of “high frequency content of the video signal” in regions away from the gaze point?

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

6. Claims 1 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Parker et al (U.S. Pub 2002/0122942. Art of record, IDS filed on July 24, 2003. Referred as Parker hereinafter)

The applied reference has a common assignee (Eastman Kodak Company) with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention “by another,” or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

Regarding claims 1 and 17, Parker teaches:

a) providing a frequency transform-encoded digital video signal having encoded frequency coefficients representing a sequence of video frames, wherein the encoding removes temporal redundancies from the video signal and encodes the frequency coefficients as base layer frequency coefficients in a base layer and as residual frequency coefficients in an enhancement layer (see wavelet decomposition, for example, described in paragraph [0061]. Note that low and high frequency coefficients refer to claimed base and enhancement layer);

(b) identifying a gaze point of an observer on the display (see gaze tracking algorithm depicted at 211 of figure 2a and data pointed mentioned in the document);

(c) partially decoding the encoded digital video signal to recover the frequency coefficients (see decompressor depicted at 804 of figure 8b);

(d) adjusting the residual frequency coefficients to reduce the high frequency content of the video signal in regions away from the gaze point (see figure 8b and paragraph [0030]);

(e) recoding the frequency coefficients, including the adjusted residual frequency coefficients, to produce a foveated transcoded digital video signal (see item 806 of figure 8b and item 220 of figure 2c); and

(f) displaying the foveated transcoded digital video signal to the observer (see monitor depicted at 105 of figure 1).

Conclusion

7. With regard to dependent claims 2-16 and 18-32, the cited prior art of record does not appear to teach or suggest the claimed features as variously defined in the claims.

8. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Duy M. Dang whose telephone number is 571-272-7389. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday to Friday from 6:00AM to 2:30PM.
